gether. In case Ryan is victorious, Stevenson would prove a good match, although the latter has the advantage in weight. Local interest would attach strongly to a return match between Block and Stevenson.
Several offers have been made for this several offers have been made for this fight by the management of the St. Louis Rowing Club boxing bouts, but the men could not agree upon terms. In case Block wins next Monday evening the men probably will be rematched immediately.

On the occasion of their last fight, Stevenson had all the better of the opening rounds. He knocked Block down several times and seemed to have the lanky fighter beaten. Block responded in great style, however, and had considerably the best of the sparting toward the close, his tremendous reach enabling him to score points rapidly. "Cotton" Dieters, who refereed, called the boat a draw. A return fight would undoubtedly draw well, and the weight question seems to be the only ocstacle, as Sievenson may not be able to get to a figure demanded by Block.

Philadelphia Tommy Ryan did not arrive in St. Louis yesterday, but a dispatch from his manager. S. Ferrett, to Bob Douglass stated that he would be here to-day. Ryan recently has been fighting in Chicago and has some good matches to his credit there. Ferrett handled Billy Rottaford when he came to this city for his bout with Morris Rauch, which was stopped by the pellee. He also has under his management Dave Barry, who fought Martin Duffy in this city last fall. Barry was then managed by Sam Pooler.

managed by Sam Pooler.

Police interference in Denver is giving boxing promoters troubles of their own these days. First the announcement is made that a fight can be pulled off in that town and then comes the declaration that the ruling powers have decided to shut down on sparring exhibitions. The result may be that this city will get the Attell-Corbett fight, after all.

Reports from Denver at first hinted that the bout would be pulled off in Louisville or San Francisco, as the police seem to have made up their minds to prevent its taking place in Denver. As this city can furnish a larger house than either city could produce, chances for seeing the contest here seem bright.

James J. Corbett is not to meet Root or Carter after all, but has retired to his residence at Bayside, Long Island. In a recent interview in New York he stated that he would at once go into training for a fight with Jeffres in September, as he is certain that the champion will hold his title when he fights Firstimmons.

While in this city recently Corbett stated that he probably would get Philadelphia Jack O'Brien to train with him, and some steps to that effect may be expected shortly. As regards his meeting with Jeffries, it is probable that Corbett would rather meet Jeffries in a championship fight than Firstimmons. While he could certainly outpoint either man in a limited round contest, but the always possible blow to a vital sport from either Fitz or Jeff, his style of fighting would show to greater advantage against a man like Jeffries than against Firzsimmons.

Corbett is supremely confident that Jeffries will win the bout and his training

Corbett is supremely confident that Jeff-ries will win the bout and his training doubtless will be with an eye to meeting Jeffries's style of fighting rather than that of Fitzammann.

From all accounts the Jeffries-Fitzsimmons battle will be fought in a huge tent at San Francisco, a plot of ground having been leased at Fourteenth and Valencia streets in that city. A temporary structure of wood and canvas will be arected. It is thought that the cost of building such an affair will be less than the price necessary to lease the Mechanics paylion. Plans for the structure provide for the excavation of the ground to a slight depth rians for the structure provide for the ex-cavation of the ground to a slight depth so as to place the ring below the level of the street. There of seats can be erected around the ring, while an outer row of seats can be built at the street level to provide a gullery. All the seats will thus rest on a solld foundation and the whole will be cov-ered by a canvas tent.

won a third victory from Baltimore yes-terday at Sportsman's Park. Barnacles gathered on the exhibition as it progressed and had it not been for the frequent arguments and accidents the handful of spectators would have gone to sleep. The victory cost Manager McAleer the services of Billy Maloney for a month and incidently led to the re-angagement of "Jiggs" Donohue as Maloney donned the mask and wind pad in the second inning after Joe Sugden had been banished from the game by Umpire Tom Connolly for his energy in disputing a decision at the plate. In the fifth sining a foul off the bat of Williams resulted dissplit his right hand between the fourth and little finger, with such force as to force the bone in the little finger through the skin. Maloney was attended by Docter Starkloff at the clubhouse, and the latter states that with the best of treatment the little catcher will not be able to return to the game before the latter part of July. The accident came near breaking up the game, for Joe Kelley would not consent to the reinstatement of Sugden in the emergen-cy and Donohue was not in uniform. The Browns were in a quandary, but August Friel. McAleer's handy man, came to the Friel, McAleer's handy man, came to the rescue by offering to go behind the bat, and finished the game handling Poweil's hot shot in a creditable manner. Friel, too, was a sufferer, for the last ball pitched doubled up one of his fingers. Doctor Starkloff also attended him, but the injury will not keep the nervy lad out of the game.

Friel Indeed a Handy Player. Friel demonstrated his worth in the pinch Within the last ten days he has filled every infield position, and yesterday made good as a backstop. In addition he cracked out three hits and scored two of the St. Louis runs. All of which greatly pleased Mana-three hits and scored two of the St. Louis runs. All of which greatly pleased Manager McAleer and the small but lusty-lunged congregation.

When the catching department was wiped out, as if by a Mont Pelee eruption, the emergency forced Bob Wallace into the game with his crippled foot. Wallace went to short and McCormick shifted over to third. Luckily but one chance came Wallace's way, and therefore he did not have to take many risks with his injured pedal. Barring these occurrences and frequent imbroglios, in which the umpire was a central figure, the game was almost featureless after the first three innings. Southpaw Shields, who made monkeys of the Detroit team a few days ago, "got his" early in the game and Captain Robble stabled the Southerner after the fourth round, Harry Howell finishing the game.

The Browns gave Shields no encouragement whatever. Burkett slaughtered the first ball pitched for a home run over the right field fence, his first four-time hit on the home grounds. Heldrick and Anderson gave the southpaw a tasie of hickory in the same inning, the Worcester giant dropping the ball out through the clubcuse gate, and up against the door for a three-bagger. The hit scored Heldrick.

three-bagger. The hit scored Heidrick.

Padden's Bread Back Saves Him.

Padden began the second with a single, but a double play saved Shields that time. He met his Waterloo in the fourth, however. A massing of hits and an error did the business. Anderson dropped an aggravating fungo to right field and went the rest of the way around on Friel's soak. It was 2 to 3 on August when he lined over McGann's head for two bases. McCormick registered a one-baser to left and Friel scooted home, benting Selbach's fly. Shields weakened on Padden and passed him to first. McGann tried to force Padden at second on Maloney's tap to right, but the ball caromed off Captain Dick's back and continued out to the field. Padden scooting around to third. McCormick had previously been nipped trying to steal, though the decision was questionable. William's momentarily fumbled Powell's grounder, but that was long enough to allow Padden to score. Burkett's long fly was pulled down by Selbach.

The score was tied twice during the game. The Birds were off with a flying start. Kelley walked and Selbach hit to right for two bases scoring Kelley. Flies to the outfield by Williams and McGann put Selbach in the clear. In the second the Orioles once more forged ahead by virtue of a double steal that cost Sugden his place in the game. Gilberi got two bases on his measly hit to left center. Shields he at three clu-eive curyes but Kelley once more walked. Together with Gilbert, who took third on a passed ball, he started to steal.

Together with Gilbert, who took third on a passed ball, he started to steal.

Sugden Ranished From Game.

Sugden shot the ball to Padden who returned it quickly. Gilbert slid in feet foremost as Sugden put the ball on him, it was a close decision but it looked safe from the grand stand. Connelly called it safe and Sugden, who rarely shows an outburst of temper, rushed up to the ump reas if he had been robbed of a month's salary. The argument sent Sugden to the tall timber and Maloney was put in. Selbach advanced Kelley to third and the pair framed up another double steal. Maloney handed out a package of green goods by a bluff toward second and then shor the hall to Friel, who smeared it on Kelley for the third out. In the fourth the Browns took the lead and held it to the end.

Howell's delivery was belted in the fifth inning for a run. Hemphill singled and worked the hit-and-run game with Heldrick reached out and pushed a safe grounder through the place which Williams should have been guarding. Hemphill taking third on the play. Anderson forced Heldrick and sacrificed his chance on a bluff steal, which resulted in his demise without advancing Hemphill, who tallied a moment later on Friel's single.

Powell Steady Throughout.

Friel's single.
Powell Steady Throughout.

Powell improved as the game progressed and from the second to the ninth inning: the Birds drew blanks, though in two in-nings there were two runners left on the bases. He had excellent control and the fact that he fanned eight of the Birds is proof of his efficiency.

In the eighth the Browns rapped out an other trio of runs, and it was well that they did, for the Orioles finished like a house aftre and would have tied the score house aftre and would have tied the score had not those three runs been registered. Anderson and Friel laid the foundation with singles, the hit-and-run game putting Andy on third. Friel stole second. McCormick was safe on Ayler's bad throw to McGann, Anderson scoring. Padden's fly paid for Friel's transportation to the plate. Wallace worked in one of his swift liners, which brought up against the left-field fence, scoring, McCormick, Powell did a club-swinging act and Burkett popped to Williams.

Oyler's Chance for Glory.

Could Andy Oyler have put away a home run in the ninth, the Birds could have taken the lead, as Powell let down. Strong hitting resulted in three runs. Gilbert beat out a slow one. Howell's long fly to right came within three fest of clearing the fence, and bluffed Hemphill out of a catch, came within three fest of clearing the fence, and bluffed Hemphill out of a catch, but Gilbert's stupid base running offset the length of the hit, for the Baltimore shortstop got no further than second. Kelley's single scored Gilbert.

Burkett contributed a star fielding play by a running capture of Selbach's fly near the bleachers, and Padden smothered a tap by Williams. The same was all but over apparently, but McGann came to life with a Texas leaguer that dropped safe in right and Howell and Kelley fled across the plate. Seymour hit safely, advancing McGann, Bresnahan had prepared to leave the field, but pulled off his coat and accepted a pass tendered him by Powell.

The gift filled the bases. Three runs were needed to tis. Oyler felt the weight of responsibility. He struck at one ball and had the second strike called on him. Had he been patient he might have waked and forced in a run, but in his overanxiety he reached far out for a bad one, missed, and the gann, was over.

DONOHUE TO REMAIN A BROWN. Released Catcher Re-engaged to Take

Maloney's Place. Catcher "Jiggs" Donohue will not join the Milwaukee club, for his release has been recalled, and he will continue as a member of the Browns for at least another month. The accident to Billy Majoney brought about the re-engagement of Donohue, whose ten days' notice would have expired Saturday. Thus for the second time does "Jiggs" land with both feet after being slated for release.

Several of the players' wives were in the grand stand yesterday and Mrs. Maloney witnessed the accident to her husband. Doctor Starkloff accompanied Maloney to the clubhouse, and while dressing the injured hand the little catcher swooned, but revived in a few moments. His hand was placed in a sling and he rejoined Mrs. Maloney in the grand stand before the game was over.

The Brown hospital is crowded. Wallace should not have been allowed to play yesterday, as his foot is still far from being in good shape after a severe sprain, but there was no one else to put in. Maloney will not be back in the game for a month, according to Doctor Starkloff. Padden is playing with a badly bruised leg, and unless he is careful some of his mixup with base stealers is going to put him out of it for a while. Frite is carrying one of his fingers in bandages and Burkett is just recovering from an attack of fever. Reidy has a sore arm that prevents him taking his regular turn on the firing line, and Heldrick is not as vivacious as is his wont. Manager McAleer is reminded of the old adage, "It never rains but it pours."

The Philadelphia Athletics will open a series at the Grand Avenue Park to-day. It is the first appearance here of Connie Mack's tribe. The Athletics are close to the top and playing good ball, but the three defeats and draw with Baltimore has proved that the Browns are getting rid of their hoodoo. Mack has put together a good team despite the interference of Colonel Rogers and the courts. The Athletics have just lost two game to the Whit Sox. Frank Donahue may pit to-day. Harper probably will twirl the Sunday game, but in case he is worked to-day it will be Donahue Sunday.

BET WITH MONEY HE FOUND. R. Thompson Won $20, Then Returned Entire Amount. Robert Thompson, a fisherman, who lives in a boat on the East St. Louis river front, found the purse, containing $114, lost by Samuel Ridgeway, the yardmaster at the Samuel Ridgeway, the yardmaster at the Mobile and Ohio yards, played the races and wen 150 with a portion of the money. Then he turned the entire sum of 133 over to Mr. Ridgeway and refused to accept a reward, although Mr. Ridgeway finally induced Thompson to accept a suit of clothes.

There was no name in the purse when Thompson found it, but the report in The Republic yesterday emorning, which stated that Mr. Ridgeway lost his purse, attracted his attention. In the meantime he had played the races with a portion of the money and had won the 150 referred to above. He knew Mr. Ridgeway very well and the latter was very much surprised at the return of his money, and especially when Thompson told him that the roll contained the 150 which he had won on the races. Mr. Ridgeway asked Thompson to name his reward, but Thompson refused and would not accept any of the money. Ridgeway finally secured his consent to accompany him to a tailor's, where he was measured for a suit of clothes.

About a year ago Thompson found a diamond brooch, which he returned to its owner.

SEPTUAGENARIAN WEDS FORMER SWEETHEART.

A. J. Melvin, Who Has Buried Two Wives, Marries Woman Who Has Had Three Husbands.

Andrew J. Melvin, 70 years old, a retired farmer of O'Fallon, St. Clair County, Ill., and Mrs. Magnolia Harwood, 40 years old, of Salem, Ill., secured a marriage license at Belleville yesterday morning and were married a few minutes afterward by Justice of the Peace Cannady. It was the third marriage for the bridegroom and the fourth for the bride. Both his former wives are dead and the first two husbands of his bride are dead. She was divorced from her third husband. The wedding followed a re-newal of an early affection which Mrs. Meivin entertained for her husband, who was then in his prime.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin drove to Belleville from O'Fallon yesterday, accompanied by a couple of mutual friends. They went di-rect to County Clerk Thomas's office, where they secured the marriage license. Justice of the Peace Cannady was convenient and he performed the ceremony. They then held a celebration at the Na-and Syndicate and Council Disagree Over Street Improvements.

The City Council of Granite City and the Niedringhaus land syndicate, that owns most of the real estate in the town, are at most of the real estate in the town, are ac-odds over a recently passed ordinance re-quiring the present a dewalks of boards and cinders to be replaced with granitoid. As-the measure provides that the cost of the improvements shall be paid by the property holder, it will cost the syndicate about $50,000 for the improvements in front of their hold-ings.

The attorneys of the syndicate will confer with the Council at the next meeting and endeavor to have the ordinance repealed. Failing in this, it is said, they will take the matter to court.

Narrow Escape From Death.

Mrs. Jennic Kelcy of Eist Madison, while seated on the porch of her home Tuesday night, was struck in the head by a bullet from a cat r de. The missile plowed its way through her scalp, inflicting an ugly wound. Had it struck a few inches lower, her physician says, she would have been killed.

It is understood an ordinance will be passed prohibiting the discharge of firearms in the town limits. One has already been passed in East St. Louis, and the majority of the residents of the Tri-Cities are in favor of a similar measure.
